to miss that which today has come to be one of the veriest necessities of American life—a daily journal full of all the doings of all the world.

Sometimes even the coarse straw paper failed the publishing fraternity when an adition was absolutely imperative, yet in such emergency the inventive talent never deserted them. It was considered a wonderful journalistic feat on the part of its publishers for The Vickburg Citizen, during the slege of that city, to make its appearance, when all other resources had failed, upon wall paper.

Publishers of books and sheet music occupied a scarcely less helpless condition than the newspaper people. Their sole grounds of superiority consisted in the fact that the demands upon them were not so urgent. The girl who sang to her soldier lover the popular songs of that time, "Loreng," "When This Cruel War is Over," "The Standard Bearer," or "Harp of the South," which were all duly advertised "at the retail price of $1 per sheet; the trade supplied, however, at half off, with an additional discount where 100 of one piece are ordered, "did not experience that immediate and insistent need of the song and its music which men and women alike felt for the newspaper that would tell them where the last battle had been fought, which army had been victorious, who had been promoted and who had fallen. The fateful column might contain evil or good report of some dear one, and its eoming was full of interest and apprehension. Yet the sheet music printed like the newspapers, in the roughest style, upon the commonest paper with now and then a caricatured little graphic likeness of some Confederate general on the title page, continued to be sold and sung, oven though the proper of some dear one of the day, and the soldiers in the camps and the small boys in ragged jackets shoulded with an equal zest:

The despots heel is on thy shore!

Farewell forever to the star spangled banner: from diminutive paper covered books of martial ballads. The little song books cost anywhere from two and a half to five Confederate dollars, and their contents, with a few notable exceptions, were as mediocre as the paper on which they were printed. The sentiment was there, nevertheless, and this was cared for by the singers more than the music or the lyrical or literary excellence of the songs.

The missionary and religious publishing houses never ceased their praiseworthy labor of printing tracts and pamphiets for distribution among the soldiers, but publications of a more ambitious or secular standard were very few.

Now and then some adventurous firm in Richmond or Charleston or New Orleans would issue a badly printed edition of a new novel, reproduced from a copy smuggled in "through the lines" or brought by the blockade runners from Nassau. Still, even "John Halifax, Gentleman," and "Les Miserables," which first appeared in the south in this way and this dress, lost much of their attractiveness in their Confederate garb of inferior ink, bad type and worse paper.—A. C. Gordon in The Century.

Fishing for Husbands.

Recently there was a gathering of young married couples in Louisville, and the conversation turned on the manner in which the wives had secured their husbands. One had paved the way to the altar by making a face at the fated one because she thought he had stared at her impudently. He admired her mettle, and sought an introduction. Another made the acquaintance of the man who is now her husband by accidentally sousing him with a pan of dishwater, which she tossed out of the kitchen window into an alley just in time to catch him as he was passing. The one that was, however, voted to be the most novel was the experience of a young man connected with the minicipal government. The latter was in the habit of passing, on his way home, the residence of the young lady who is now his better half, and one evening, out of a spirit of mischief, sho "accidentally on purpose" turned the hose on him. He faced about, blushed violently, and stammered a "thank you" in response to her roguish smile, and from that moment he knew he was fated.—Chicago Herald.

ON SCRAP BOCKS.

Bill Nye Relates His Experience for a Reader's Benefit.

A correspondent writes from Pensacola, Fla., asking what is perfection or the nearest perfection in a scrap book, also desiring to know my own experience in scrap books, if I ever had any.

A scrap book generally is like a diary; you begin to keep it with extreme exuberance, and you gradually flag and flicker out and flummix, as one might say.

I began simply by ordering from my congressman an edition de luxe of the report of the commissioner of education, bound in plain muslin and boards. Taking a volume of this kind to my airy suit of hall bedroom and woodbox, with the keen blade of a butcher kinfe i cut out two leaves and left a butcher kinfe i cut out two Fishing for Husbands.

About "Canned Goods Poisoning."

Yet, with all the advantages of canned goods, some people abstain from their use, because they think they are unwholesome. This idea has arisen from the fact, that among the hundreds of millions of tins annually construed, there is now and then one imperfectly sealed, thus admitting the air and spolling the contents. These are easily detected, from the fact that they generally have "swelled" or puffed up ends, and, after opening, by the exercise of common sense in the use of the organs of taste and smell. No one thinks of eating a decayed potato, or spoiled eggs, fish or meats, but some consumers seem to think that because a thing is put up in tin, it must be good under all circum-

"What a chance for you," said a friend to one of our bonanza princes, just completing his new house. "What a chance to buy some fine paintings. the house, marking a general neating over each row by means of red chalk. This gives the room a cheery appearance, adds to the acoustics of the house and is certainly very convenient. By means of a step ladder I am enabled to select anything I desire readily, and the space usually fooled away and covered by expensive but non-romunerative pictures is made highly useful.

Sometimes I have to hire an amanuensis to do this work, and it is not done the same way I would do it myself. Last year I went away for a few months to give some readings in aid of a few-poor children for whom I feel myself responsible, and, while absent, I had a young man named Pulaski Murkley attend to this. He was very methodical and wrote a good hand, as I afterwards learned by comparing some of my own signatures at the bank with some studies which he had made of the same subject. They were better, if anything, than my own, I must admit, and the cashier at the bank agreed with me about it.

But he was very methodical indeed, and and the cashier at the bank agreed with me about it.

But he was very methodical, indeed, and kept my scrap book carefully, according to his own ideas. He came from a summer resort called Chisch'em-out-of-their-eye-teeth-hurst-by-the-sea. A Good Remedy for Burns.

Many remedies at one time or anoth-er have been proposed for the surgical condition following the application of excessive heat to the body, and, while some of these are of value, still all are more or less unsatisfactory. The al-leviation of the pain and suffering attended upon burns is one of the most important points in the case toward which the surgeon directs his efforts The shock from this cause is sufficient often times to produce death, and al-The shock from this cause is sufficient often times to produce death, and always is great. Accidentally I recently discovered a remedy which is easily applied and exceedingly prompt in its action. I was called in some haste to a little child, about three weeks ago, who was badly burned about the hands and face, from falling on a hot stove. The burns were deep, the pain excessive, and the shock very considerable. I sent to the drug store for a mixture of lime water, olive oil and carbolic acid. While waiting for this, I prepared to give the child a hypodermic injection of morphine' with which to aliay the agony, which was so great that convulsions seemed imminent. While I was getting ready to do this, I espied upon the shelf a bottle of pinus canadensis (colorless.) Remembering its. Fonderful soothing influence in active inflammation, I at once concluded to try it. Taking a corner of a soft hankerchief, I rapidly painted the injured parts, when, like magic, in the first of the colonel the other day as an unduring the life. IN THROUGH COACH.

These Coaches have Porters in charge to look after the Comfort and wolfare of the Emigrant, and to see that the Local Fassengers are not allowed to get in the Through Coach and crowd them. No other rouse infers such inducements. It would tax your time and patience too much to attempt to describe the rich and beautiful hones and fertile lands of Arkansas and Texas. Therefore, I would advise you to go and see for yourself. Examine the country. Mingle with the people. Learn the advantages and disadvantages. Examine the school facilities. Buy or reat a farm, or take up Government Land, and go to work.

People emigrating from the Southeast cannot endure the extreme cold of Kansas, Nebrasks and the Northwestern winter. Just think of it—nine long months of ice, snow and bitter winds in exchange for our Sunny South! Our well-timbered land for their treeless tracts! Yet there are unscrupulous agents who give glowing discriptions of the Northwester. Do not be deceived! Visit Arkansas and Texas and be your own judge!

Write to me for full information. I will send you Map, Book and Papers, free.
